

Get more done while connecting with local talent

Micro-Internships provide immediate support on tasks that are important, but not the best use of your time.

Through the Kansas Micro-Internship Program, Parker Dewey is excited to connect your team with early-career talent at no cost to your organization.

Micro-Internships provide busy professionals with on-demand support through paid, professional projects completed by college students.

As a Kansas employer, you're eligible to work with Kansas college students on two Micro-Internships, funded up to $500 each.

Post a project. Select a candidate. Get work off your plate.

This program changes the playing field for many students, particularly community college students and students from rural areas.
