Challenges Facing College Students

Access

- CSU may not be a “focus” school of some employers
- Limited opportunities that fit their schedules

Selection

- Filtered based upon GPA, major, and other attributes
- Preconceived notions of hiring managers

Explore

- Awareness of opportunities, industries, roles
- Limited professional networks prior to CSU

What Employers Want

Engage students
earlier

Get through the noise

Build or enhance “employer brand”

Develop relationships
to improve outcomes

What Is a Micro-Internship

- Short-term: Typically 10-40 hours
- Paid: Average cost is $400 (fixed fee, implying $20/hour), with 90% to the student
- Professional: Similar assignments to those completed by interns or new hires
- Comprehensive: All industries, departments, and organization sizes
- Flexible: Year-round as needed, and typically remote
- Easy: No administrative burdens or “conversion” fees

Serves as a complement to summer internships, co-ops, and full-time hiring.

Student Voices

“Working on Micro-Internships meant there were less barriers. I could jump right into a project and I got to know what their expectations were sooner instead of being filtered out by my GPA.”

Legend F.

Yaxin L.

“It wasn’t until I got to actually work with those companies on Micro-Internships that I actually felt like I knew what I could expect.”

“I know I’m getting paid, I’m getting experience. There are so many possibilities beyond that.”

Yayra T.

“At a career fair, my classmates had long conversations with recruiters while I was being told not to leave my resume for consideration. Micro-Internships gave us something to talk about.”

Noel A.

“I was overlooked by so many recruiters because my set of experiences, educational path, and lack of a traditional internship... until I had Micro-Internships to back it up.”

Fabian R.

How to Introduce Micro-Internships At Your Organization

(it's also really easy)

Easy to Introduce

Hiring managers value the resource, you see the impact

Individual Projects

- Things you have on your own plate
- Let your colleagues know it's an option

Defined Teams

- Introduce to specific departments (understaffed, open roles, etc.)
- Align with ERGs / BRGs

CSU-Exclusive Program

- Defined number of projects for CSU students
- Highlight your organization to CSU students

Micro-Internships for ERGs / BRGs

Drive the effectiveness of diversity hiring initiatives, while also enhancing the experiences of existing employees from underrepresented populations.

Benefits for ERG / BRG Members

- Get immediate support on projects that are important, but linger on a to-do list
- Engage with college students and recent graduates from similar backgrounds
- Tangible appreciation for the importance of DEI within their company

Benefits for Recruiters

- Early access to diverse, highly motivated college students nationwide
- Connect with students the way they want to be recruited
- Improved hiring and conversion outcomes

CSU's Micro-Internships Will Help You:

Engage students earlier

- Build a pipeline of candidates, including underclassmen

Get through the noise

- Engage students how they want to be engaged

Build or enhance “employer brand”

- Reach students not planning to apply to your organization

Develop relationships to improve outcomes

- Create interactions between students and hiring managers

FAQs

- You define the project and set the price
- No obligations or other fees even if it turns into an internship or full-time role
- Not your employees, interns, or contractors
- All Micro-Interns are under NDA and legal assignment

Appendix

Experiential Recruiting

Provide opportunities for college students and recent grads to execute real, short-term, professional projects similar to those they would complete as a new hire or during a summer internship.

Through these, Career Launchers gain experience, demonstrate skills, and build relationships that support their career exploration and create pathways to internships and full-time roles.

In addition, as these diverse, highly motivated career launchers complete these Micro-Internships on behalf of existing employees, you can access prospective candidates, assess their skills, build authentic relationships, and make the right hires.

How It Works

1. Post Your Project

Think about the tasks you want done, but don't have the time for or aren't the best use of time for you or your team.

2. Select Who You Want

You'll only see candidates who have proactively expressed interest in completing your assignment.

3. The Work Gets Done

You can communicate with the student as much or as little as you want and in whatever way is easiest for you.

Our role:

- Assist in posting projects
- Student access and assistance in student selection
- Student onboarding and payroll
- On-demand support

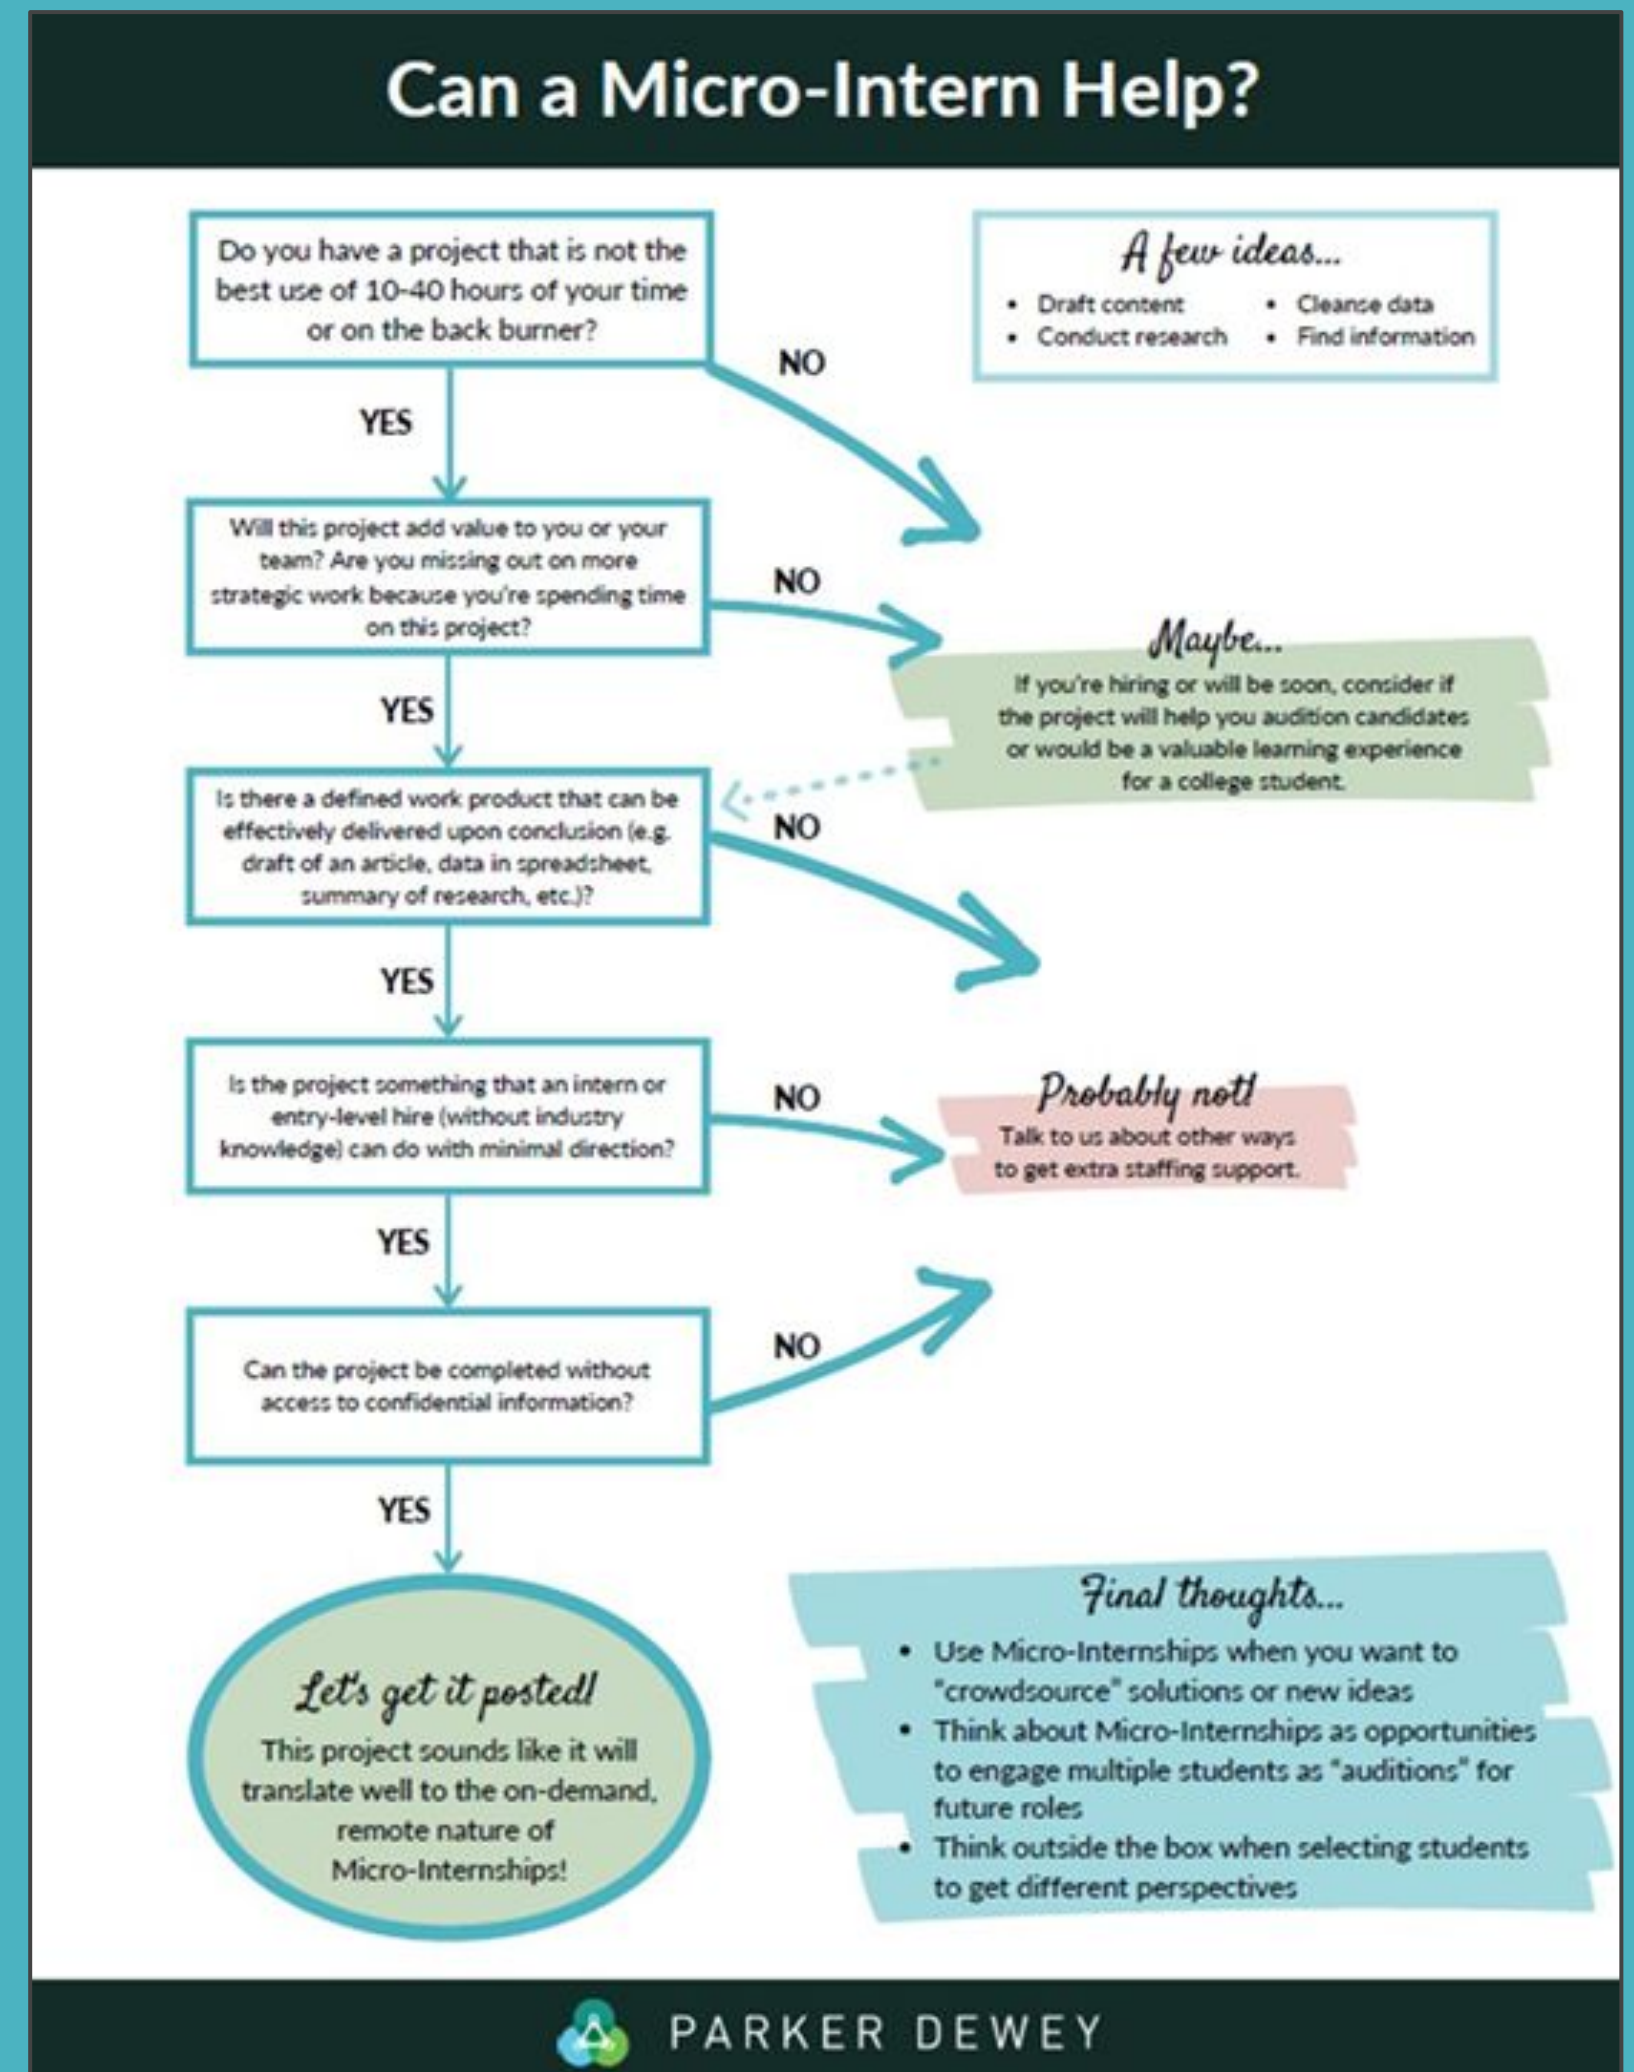

Everyone Has Project Needs

“We should...”

Projects that would be valuable, but there aren't enough hours in the day

“I shouldn't...”

Tasks that are important, but not the best use of time for existing employees (but would be perfect for a college student or recent grad)

Valued By Employees

Busy professionals receive just-in-time support from highly motivated candidates.

Recruiters receive actionable feedback to route candidates to the next stage of the hiring process.

FIVE EASY WAYS TO INTRODUCE MICRO-INTERNSHIPS AT YOUR COMPANY

- 1 BUSY EMPLOYEES

Think about departments that are trying to do more with less, or are frequently requesting additional resources. Whether their teams were cut or they are trying to keep up with growth, they have projects that need to get done.
- 2 TEAMS THAT ARE HIRING

For departments with open positions, Micro-Interns provide immediate support while they seek the right new hire. In fact, you might even find that great fit.
- 3 FREELANCE USERS

With over 50% of professionals engaging freelancers, chances are many of your colleagues are as well (even if your company doesn't know about it). Since they already have the need, you can leverage this to complement your recruiting efforts.
- 4 EMPLOYEE RESOURCE GROUPS

Given their support for diversity, equity, and inclusion, ERG members will be excited to provide these opportunities. Not only can they build authentic relationships with college students, it also helps provide equitable access for potential hires.
- 5 UNIVERSITY ALUMNI AND FANS

For employees looking to support their alma mater or other college programs, Micro-Internships provide a great opportunity to engage students. And since Micro-Internships are available for students at every college and university across the country, it's easy to give back.
